Mossy Head substation upgrades underway, PowerSouth mobile sub keeps power flowing

To continue improving reliability and meet growing energy needs, CHELCO, in partnership with our generation and transmission partner, PowerSouth Energy Cooperative, has begun major upgrades at the Mossy Head substation. This project will expand the substation's capacity to accommodate the significant growth in the area.

Currently, the Mossy Head substation serves more than 4,000 meters, including the rapidly developing industrial park. During construction, PowerSouth will provide a mobile substation unit to help carry the electric load and ensure members continue receiving reliable power throughout the upgrade process.

"This is a major upgrade for our members in Mossy Head," said CHELCO SVP of Engineering and Operations Matthew Avery. "These proactive improvements are part of our long-term effort to meet growing energy demand and build a stronger, more resilient system for our members."

The upgrades, much like those underway on our Auburn substation, will include new equipment and enhanced technology to improve efficiency, reduce outages and allow CHELCO to better manage electric load during peak times. Once completed, the project will increase capacity to serve new members and ensure the community is well prepared for future growth.

Looking ahead, PowerSouth plans to add a new transformer in 2026, adding 20 megawatts of capacity to the Mossy Head substation. By planning ahead and working closely with PowerSouth, CHELCO is ensuring Mossy Head members can count on safe, dependable power for years to come.

CEO Insights: Thankful for our team's community involvement

As we enter the season of Thanksgiving, I am reminded how many things there are to be thankful for. Personally, I am thankful for my family, good health and many other blessings that are too numerous to count. I am also thankful for many things specific to my role as CEO, most importantly, for the people who make our co-op what it is: our members, Board of Trustees, employees and retirees.

I've spent most of my adult life with cooperatives, and one thing I have always appreciated is their deep roots within their communities. Now in my 13th year with CHELCO, I have seen many changes as the electric utility industry and society continually evolve. However, one thing that hasn't changed – not in my time at CHELCO, nor in the 85 years of its existence – is our co-op's strong support for our community, and a stroll through our offices offers living proof. You may see a plaque that reads "Relay for Life: Top Fundraiser" from years past. You may see a picture of a CHELCO volunteer team proudly displayed in an employee's office. You may even see a trophy case full of wins for good causes. Today, our team continues to live up to the standards established by those who came before us.

Aligning Values

Cooperative values guide our decisions every day, and I'm thankful that we have a team whose personal values closely align with those of our cooperative. From serving as Little League coaches in their personal time to participating in volunteer events with CHELCO, many of our folks spend countless hours of their lives making our communities a better place.

Recent Community Involvement

Just last month, our team had a hand in several community-facing events. On Oct. 3, a team of CHELCO ladies took advantage of our volunteer time off program to participate in the Habitat for Humanity of Walton County Women's Build event, where the team tackled various construction projects for the newest home in the Habitat Village in DeFuniak Springs. Kudos, ladies!

That same day, we were happy to have several CHELCO departments represented at Bluewater

Elementary's Career Day, where employees shared various career opportunities available at our co-op, answered students' questions and even gave a bucket truck demo.

In late September, CHELCO was proud to sponsor the Home Runs for Heroes softball tournament hosted by our generation and transmission cooperative, PowerSouth. The event raised $71,450 to support fallen and injured linemen and their families, another example of cooperative values in action. I'm proud to share that our team, Shock 'N Awe, took home the trophy for winning the Silver Bracket.

Have a Happy Thanksgiving!

As we reflect on our many blessings during the Thanksgiving season, I am thankful for the opportunity to serve with an organization made up of individuals that are dedicated to their families, to their communities, and to you, our members.

I hope you enjoy your time with family and friends this Thanksgiving season.

Chief Executive Officer

Juniors: Apply now for the trip of a lifetime!

CHELCO's 2025 Youth Tour delegates enjoyed a two-day trip to Tallahassee, where they visited the State Capitol, learned about electric co-ops and made lasting memories.

Are you a high school junior living within CHELCO's service area? If so, you're eligible to apply for Youth Tour!

What is Youth Tour?

Youth Tour is a leadership experience sponsored by CHELCO that gives high school juniors a firsthand look at how electric cooperatives and government work.

This two-day, all-expenses-paid trip in February takes students to Tallahassee, where they'll meet state officials and connect with other co-op students from across Florida.

Everyone who participates in the Tallahassee trip will have the chance to compete for a free, weeklong trip to Washington, D.C., in June. Winners will explore our nation's capital, learn more about the history of electric cooperatives, and sharpen their leadership skills.

How to Participate

Each high school may select up to two representatives to attend Youth Tour with CHELCO. If you're interested in this exciting opportunity, talk to your guidance counselor for details.

2025 CHELCO Delegates at White House

How are D.C. winners selected?

Students who attend the Tallahassee trip may enter the competition for the Washington, D.C., tour. Participants will submit a 2-4 minute video highlighting their Youth Tour experience, extracurricular activities, and future goals. The videos will be judged by three impartial judges, and the top four scorers will represent CHELCO in Washington, D.C.

What's next?

If you'd like to be part of Youth Tour, contact your guidance counselor for an application packet or visit CHELCO.com/Youth-Tour to learn more about this incredible leadership program.
